

Anna Maria Sánchez Granados

Her academic training includes a variety of programmes focussed on the managing director's role and on business administration and management.

She holds a Master's Degree in Public Authority Management from Barcelona's ESADE Business School; a Higher Telecommunications Technical Engineer's (Sound and Image Specialist's) Diploma from Barcelona Polytechnical University; and an Electronic Systems Technical Engineer's Diploma from Ramon Llull University, also in Barcelona.

At present she is Director General of the Agency for Accreditation in Research, Development and Technological Innovation and Associate Professor in Barcelona Polytechnical University's Business Organization Department. She also sits on various Research- and Innovation-related Committees at the National Accreditation Organization, the Spanish Standards Association, and the Chamber of Commerce, amongst others.